DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 4, 6-11, 14, 17, and 19-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Labanok et al. (US 2004/0190259, newly cited, hereinafter, Labanok.)

In regard to claims 1 and 11, in fig. 4B, Labanok discloses an integrated circuit comprising:

a substrate 414;

a die 410 coupled to a first side of said substrate;

a conductive lid 422 having a foot portion 452 extending from the top of said conductive lid to the first side of said substrate, said foot portion forming a recessed portion adapted to receive said die; and a through-hole located in said foot portion and extending from the top of said conductive lid to said substrate, said through-hole being tapered and adapted to receive an adhesive 441 to secure said conductive lid to said substrate of said integrated circuit;

wherein said adhesive secures said conductive lid to said substrate of said integrated circuit by extending into said tapered through-hole along a wall of said tapered through-hole, said wall extending substantially vertically from said substrate.

In regard to claim 4, wherein said through-hole comprises a multi-diameter through-hole. Fig. 4B.

In regard to claims 8, 9, and 10, wherein said foot portion extends around said recessed portion and symmetrically around the foot portion. See paragraph [0040].

In regard to claim 14, wherein said through-hole comprises a conical through-hole. Fig. 4B.

In regard to claim 17, wherein said adhesive material comprises a thermally conductive epoxy. See paragraphs [0042-0043].

In regard to claim 19, Labanok further comprises a thermal grease 416 positioned between said die and said conductive lid. See paragraph [0034].

In regard to claim 20, Labanok further comprises underfill, also 441, positioned between said substrate and said conductive lid. Fig. 4B.

In regard to claims 6 and 7, Labanok does not explicitly teach that how the through hole is made. However, the limitations "injection molding and drilling" in claim 6 and 7 are taken to be a product by process limitation, it is the patentability of the claimed product and not of recited process steps which must be established. Therefore, when the prior art discloses a product which reasonably appears to be identical with or only slightly different than the product claimed in a product-by process claim, a rejection based on sections 102 or 103 is fair. A product by process claim directed to the product per se, no matter how actually made, In re Hirao, 190 USPQ 15 at 17 (footnote 3). See In re Fessman, 180 USPQ 324,326(CCPA 1974); In re Marosi et al., 218 USPQ 289,292 (Fed. Cir. 1983); and particularly In re Thorpe, 227 USPQ 964,966 (Fed. Cir. 1985), all of which make it clear that it is the patentability of the final structure of the product "gleaned" from the process steps, which must be determined in a "product by process " claim, and not the patentability of the process. See also MPEP 2113. Moreover, an old or obvious product produced by a new method is not a patentable product, whether claim in "product by process" claim or not.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1 and 11 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

3. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
